Peppermints on Parade

Red and white stripes are an iconic Christmas pattern and give this North Pole-inspired look a light, fresh feel. Reminiscent of Santa's Workshop—with playful accents and even a few elves—this collection puts the happy in happy holidays.

Keep the giftwrap and bows in the same color scheme as the tree, and they become part of the decor.

Merry Magnolia

Rich jewel tones and gold accents set the scene for magnolia blooms to take a surprising lead role in this look. This unique pairing takes classic Christmas decor to new levels of elegance while maintaining the nostalgic feeling of being home for the holidays.

For a warmer, cozier take on the traditional Christmas colors, go for muted shades of red and green. When you add the soft glow of twinkle lights, the result is extra inviting.

Down-Home Holiday

This warm-and-welcoming style proves that a neutral color palette can still bring life and traditional cheer to your holiday decor. Textural elements like shiplap and bare wood add to the let's-gather feel and keep the look as cozy as Christmas should be.

The greenery says “merry Christmas,” but the addition of a wood garland, metal accents and black and white plaid says “festive farmhouse.”

Glowy Greetings

Dainty, delicate and utterly dreamy, this look celebrates the season in the softest of ways: with blush tones, feathers and warmly glowing twinkle lights. It's a vintage-inspired vision that hints at a holiday full of magical memories just waiting to be made.

In an otherwise neutral color palette of cream and gold, the addition of a variety of pinks highlights the collection's sheer elegance.

Whimsical Wonderland

Whimsy and color come together for a candy-coated Christmas that sparkles with personality. With vivid hues and DIY-able accents (like pinwheels and pompoms), this funky-festive look is an invitation to deck your halls with a more-the-merrier approach.

Don't be afraid to put a trendy twist on the classic red and green. We paired the bright colors with white for balance and stuck to classic decor pieces—like garlands, a wreath and faux trees.

Plaid Tidings

This look relies on traditional buffalo-check plaid to bring the comfiest, coziest Christmas to life. Rustic touches like deer, burlap and wood are right at home in this look that glows with the charm of a snow-nestled country cabin.

Natural elements—
we love the look of pine needles and holly berries—add freshness and interest to traditionally wrapped gifts.

We used solids (burlap and pops of the same red from the plaid) to balance the boldness of the buffalo check while elevating the cabin-chic feel.
