

Fashionable PONY BEADS

HOBBY LOBBY®

OH-SO-COLORFUL
Jewelry & Accessories!

Chain Reaction

With so many different pony beads and chains to mix and match, your necklace-making possibilities are never-ending!

Style tip: Create layered necklaces by attaching multiple beaded strands to a single jump-ring-and-clasp combo.

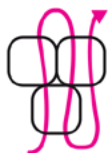

Play by Ear

We're all smiles over these beaded earrings—and you will be too when you find the free patterns below! You'll need mini pony beads and flower disc beads for the strawberries, pony beads and smiley face beads for the smiles, and earring posts for both.

Eye on It

This sunglasses strap gives eye-catching a whole new meaning. Cut 30 inches of elastic cord and bead away! We personalized ours with a kit of flower and butterfly (and alphabet!) beads.

Then we looped the ends, added cord end findings, and secured them with glue.

In Full Color

Why settle for a basic lanyard when you can make something custom out of an array of stylish beads! To mimic this color-block design, alternate sections of mini pony beads, pearl beads and clay heishi disc beads.

Brace Yourself

Make your bracelets pop with one-of-a-kind personality by incorporating different shades, styles and sizes of pony beads (as well as charms!). Just grab a bead kit or two, elastic cording, charms (many sold in multi-packs) and let the beading begin!

Get Ahead

Looking for a beginner pony bead project that you can make in minutes? These headbands are just the thing! Thread pony and alphabet beads directly onto wire headbands, and glue flower and star beads along the wire to keep everything in place.

Hoop & Holler

Hello, beaded duo!

Earrings: Place pony, disc and flower beads onto hoop earrings. Then wrap the rest of the hoops with embroidery floss.

Headband: Wire pony beads, spacers and chain links to a metal headband with clear elastic cording and glue on ruffled ribbon.

Hang Around

The how-to for this cactus car charm: String three strands of pony beads and spacers (do this three times, once for the stem and twice for the arms) and tie them together. Place craft wire into the arms to shape, glue the arms to the stem, and add a strand for hanging.

Bag It!

You've got this project in the bag! Grab some pony beads, hemp cord, a sheet of stiffened felt, magnetic snaps, two wood rings and a bit of yarn. Scroll below to get the free pattern and step-by-step instructions.

Pay Day

Here's a wallet strap that's big on style but won't break the bank. To recreate our look, make two strands (one beaded with pony beads and one braided with embroidery floss), and then attach all of the ends to a jump ring and clasp.
